Excitement and relaxation – you can enjoy both on SWISS RUBY. And if you combine individual routes with each other, for example from Berlin to Stralsund and also simultaneously book the return journey, you will also enjoy a combination discount of 5%.

Scene of the crime? On board and ashore. Our new Crime Cruises.

Duisburg-Ruhrort – that was the name of the first Schimanski crime scene (“Tatort”) from 1981. And that’s exactly where we’ll be dropping anchor during one of our new crime cruises, visiting the original locations, where the “Schmuddel-Kommissar” made television history. Thus, we would also already be in the heart of our new Crime Cruise program. This year, you can expect plenty of suspense, both on board and on land: visit original crime scene (“Tatort”) locations and historical sites of the witch hunt in Minden – or reconstruct the espionage affair at the court of King Frederick William I (1688 - 1740) in Potsdam. In the evening, popular crime novel authors and experts such as Axel Petermann, Knut Diers, Mario Beschekus, Tatjana Kruse, and Kathrin Hanke will whisk you away into the exciting world of perpetrators and victims. During Sybille Baecker’s reading, an expert tasting of two Scotch whiskies is sure to make her Highland crime novel a particularly delicate case.

Highlights

- Captivating readings
- Original scenes from Tatort
- Mysterious cases
- Scottish Whisky Tasting

Mario Beschekus

On board: RUBY 47
11.03. - 12.03.2024

Braunschweig and Hanover, two cities that have a historical rivalry. And possibly, for that very reason, the ideal sDaye for Mario Beschekus and his Lower Saxony crime stories about the grumpy Detective Superintendent, Wim Schneider. And this much is certain: when it comes to showcasing exciting cases, there is hardly any other author who is better able to authentically utilize the feud between Braunschweig and Hanover. This is because Mario Bekeschus was born in Braunschweig in 1979, where he also spent his childhood and youth. After studying in Hildesheim, he moved to Hanover, where he is still living today. He has been working in a ministry since 2007. In the meantime, he has spent three years in the State Chancellery of Lower Saxony. To this very day, he has reMayned deeply attached to his hometown of Braunschweig, and he regularly visits family, friends and various favorite places there, and not only for research purposes.

Tatjana Kruse

On board: RUBY 49
27.03. - 29.03.2024

The author, Tatjana Kruse, specializes in “crime fiction”. She was born in Kirchheim in 1960 and spent her childhood in Schwabisch-Hall, where she still lives and works today. At the latest upon receipt of the prestigious Marlowe Literature Prize of the Raymond Chandler Society for a crime story, at the end of the 1990s, there was no more doubt that she could go far with her own texts. Today, Kruse is a popular author whose repertoire includes several novels. Among other things, she is a member of SYNDIKAT, an association for German-language crime literature, and the International Association of Crime Writers. She is also a regular guest at crime festivals in Germany, Switzerland and Austria. In 2005, she won the Nordfällen Prize, making her the house crime writer for the city of Flensburg for an entire summer.

Kathrin Hanke

On board: RUBY 48
21.02 - 22.02.2024

Having completed her degree in cultural studies in Lüneburg, Kathrin Hanke decided to make writing her profession: she worked for a radio station, wrote for newspapers, and ultimately decided to go into advertising copywriting, in addition to working as a ghostwriter. However, her true passion is storytelling, where she enjoys blending fiction with facts to create compelling narratives. In 2014, she decided to pursue a career as a freelance author in her hometown of Hamburg and has been working in this capacity ever since. Kathrin Hanke is a member of the association for German-language crime literature SYNDIKAT as well as the association Mörderische Schwestern e. V.

Axel Petermann

On board: RUBY 48
13.03 & 17.03.2024

He originally joined the police force as a temporary replacement for his military service. But there, an unsolved murder case awakened his interest in crime solving. Today, Axel Petermann is Germany's most famous profiler. Since 2000, he has been a permanent advisor to the Bremen Tatort, assisting authors with criminalistic reflections, and today he has become a best-selling author himself. His books, such as "On the Trail of Evil" or "The Profiler" are based on true cases, and all made it onto the bestseller lists. Axel Petermann has been the host of the show "Autopsie - der Profiler" since 2016, and since 2018, he has been analyzing spectacular criminal cases together with psychologist, Katinka Keckeis, for the ZDFinfo series format "Aufgeklärt".

A person with white hair is seen from behind, sitting on a yellow sofa in a wood-paneled room. They are looking towards a jewelry display case on the right side of the frame. The display case contains various pieces of jewelry, including necklaces and earrings. The room has dark wood paneling and a framed picture on the wall to the left.

Criminally good. Exclusively for you!

Crime fans can look forward to exclusive specials: find out more about a profiler's work and enjoy first-class entertainment during a book reading. To find out who the other guests and highlights are that are awaiting you on board, visit our website at www.viva-cruises.com/krimi-kreuzfahrten.

Between the Vltava and the Elbe.

It is the most famous musical river journey of all: “The Vltava” by Bedrich Smetana. The music describes the river as it swirls in rapids, flows on in a broad train towards Prague, and ultimately flows into the Elbe in its majestic course. Whether majestic or raging – on a cruise between Berlin and Prague, it is, first and foremost, the alternating play of forces of this river that has captivated many travelers.

Prague* itself is certainly at the top of the list of the most popular city breaks in Europe. After all, the city is virtually bursting at the seams with art and culture, and is also a magnificent example of Gothic architecture. No less fascinating: Litoměřice – or: Leitmeritz, as it is called in our language – on the right bank of the Elbe. After just a few minutes, the many small stores, bakeries, and restaurants in the side streets around the Main Square will give you an idea of how lively this bustling little town is.

Along the Elbe River, we eventually pass such great cities as Dresden, Meissen, Wittenberg, Dessau, Magdeburg, Brandenburg, Potsdam, and, of course, Berlin. And apart from the many exciting shore excursions – it is above all this moment, when the ship slowly approaches the port of a next big city, that you will not forget so quickly.

*Note: Depending on the water level, the trip goes to Prague Troy.

Highlights

- Long stay in Prague
- Luther Hall in Wittenberg
- Many cultural highlights in Dresden
- City stroll in Potsdam

From Berlin, out to the open sea.

Stralsund: one of the most beautiful historic cities in Germany. Wieck: a small, centuries-old fishing village. Peenemünde: a small village, with only 300 inhabitants. Szczecin: the Hanseatic city in Poland, with its St. James Cathedral built in 1693. In short, you could hardly find a more multifaceted and diverse river cruise. And on the water, too, on our route between Berlin and the Baltic Sea, you will experience just about everything that sea and inland navigation has to offer. You will travel along large and small canals, waters such as the Szczecin Lagoon or the Greifswald Bodden, rivers such as the Havel and the Oder, as well as the Peene River in Mecklenburg-Western Pomerania, which is a 20 km long estuary connecting the Szczecin Lagoon with the Baltic Sea. Finally, on the Baltic coast in Mecklenburg-Western Pomerania, you can breathe real sea air. If you would like to get to know the beauty of this area, its offshore islands, its unspoiled nature and some of the most beautiful Hanseatic cities in Germany, you should have a personal logbook with you on this trip to record the many experiences.

Highlights

- Hanseatic City of Stralsund
- Canals, rivers, Bodden and coast
- Historic Szczecin and Wolgast
- Historical fishing village Greifswald/Wieck

Culture and nature between the Weser, Saar and Neckar rivers.

A river cruise to the southwest of Germany is one of the most popular trips in our program. Because, regardless of whether culture or nature – on these routes, you are sure to enjoy both to a particularly high degree. With Heidelberg, Bernkastel or Trier, for example, we head for cities where you can really sense even millennia of history. The well-preserved Roman monuments in Trier, such as the Porta Negra or the famous Roman Bridge, leave no doubt that you are in the oldest city in Germany. By contrast, a true spectacle of nature awaits you along the Saar: the river landscapes in Saarburg, Merzig and, above all, the famous Saar Loop in Mettlach, count among the most wonderful areas to marvel at from the water. And anyone who has seen the riverbanks lined with golden to deep red leaves in the autumn sunlight, knows what a fantastic play of colors such a river trip can offer, especially towards the end of the year.

Highlights

- New Palace (Neues Schloss) in Stuttgart
- Trier, the oldest city in Germany
- Germany's oldest university in Heidelberg (14th century)
- River landscapes along the Saar

On the trail of Schimi and Börne

Change of scene to Münster: in addition to interesting background information on the popular crime scene (“Tatort”) with Professor Börne and Inspector Thiel, you will also learn about the dark past of current criminal cases in the otherwise tranquil Westphalia.
